

PRODUCT

New Fly

Exclusively designed taps that bring ergonomics

A bathroom should have a carefully considered design that provides functionality, making the most of the room with a good layout that looks visually tidy. A layout full of possibilities, such as wall-hung furniture or easy-to-pull-out drawers, can make the space feel larger.

Bathroom with taps from the New Fly collection by ramonsoler

The combination of wood in the vanity units with the dark tones of the flooring and wall tiling makes the bathroom an elegant interior in which the white of the basin, the toilet and the shower tray stands out.

Bathroom with taps from the New Fly collection by ramonsoler

PROJECT

Tap manufacturer Ramonsoler, with 130 years of experience, presents the New Fly collection, characterised by its novel forms, especially in the lever area, which has a curved shape designed for greater ergonomics. This designer bathroom is exceptionally well put together thanks to its combination of colours, shapes and the New Fly tap collection, which is designed with sharp angles of inclination in its body and spout, as well as organic lines in its lever that give it a dynamic look. The interior stands out as a minimalist, orderly space that has only the essentials to create a bathroom of great design and functionality. It has wooden details that add a warm touch, making the bathroom a place that steers clear of the dull. It is a minimalist design that gives people the essentials in an extraordinary way, reflecting on what truly matters.

Detail of a basin tap from the New Fly collection by ramonsoler.

LIGHTING

The interior features lighting that combines different types of luminaires, adapting to every situation. The ceiling has a series of general lights to illuminate the whole bathroom without leaving any corner dark. In addition, the bathroom has a continuous line of light in the ceiling over the shower area, which adds a design touch. The area that needs the most light is undoubtedly the basin, as it is where users need particular attention when washing, shaving or applying make-up in the mirror. For that reason, a lamp hangs above the basin providing a spot of focused light. The mirror is backlit to create a halo of light around anyone standing in front of it. The set of lights creates a reflection in the taps, giving an exquisite result that stands out for its shine, reminiscent of a treasure.

Detail of a shower tap from the New Fly collection by ramonsoler

SHOWER AREA

The bathroom has a shower area separated by a sliding glass screen with metal guides, which combines perfectly with the refined New Fly tap range by ramonsoler. The large shower blends subtly into the design of the bathroom thanks to its straight lines and white base, matched with the surface of the basin.

The New Fly shower head has an elongated shape in the handle for greater functionality and a large circular shape at the base, which provides a feeling of wellbeing as the water falls, covering the whole body. The New Fly single-lever tap has an ergonomic lever with a dynamic shape that makes it easy and comfortable to use.

Detail of a basin tap from the New Fly collection by ramonsoler.

BASIN AREA

The basin has a wall-hung unit with straight lines, which is on trend thanks to its modern design. It also makes cleaning easier by leaving the floor and part of the lower wall visible, giving a greater sense of space. The basin unit has one large drawer on its left side and two smaller drawers on its right side, providing the essential storage for the bathroom. The New Fly tap by Ramonsoler follows an elegant line thanks to its dynamic, ergonomic shapes, which give it a special character and a design that is pleasing to the eye because it breaks with convention and creates an exceptional interior.

More information: rsramonsoler.com/en-INT/press-releases/bano-new-fly-de-ramonsoler