The Tzar bathroom

Design has evolved towards people's needs, both aesthetically and functionally. Stepping into a bathroom like this is a moment of unrivalled well-being: it is an avant-garde, orderly, clean and surprising space. The first thing you notice on entering is the brightness, despite the fact that the bathroom has no windows. This is due to the project's lighting and the excellent choice of materials. Particularly noteworthy is the three-dimensional wall covering, whose play of reflections creates a striking effect.

The bañoTzar project brings together the highly elegant TZAR collection of taps by Ramon Soler® with a bathroom design that radiates exclusivity.

TZAR

The choice of taps is very important in a bathroom of this calibre, and nothing suits it better than the TZAR collection by Ramon Soler®. As we all know, taps are one of the details that make the difference, and the TZAR collection becomes the jewel of this bathroom.

The avant-garde TZAR collection stands out for its symmetrical, firm aesthetic. These are taps with personality, conveying strength and elegance, and adding importance and character to the bathroom.

The most novel aspect of TZAR lies in its handle, which features an impeccable cylindrical design, inversely proportional to the body and the spout, which unify and give meaning to the tap as a whole, creating a harmony of lines and right angles. Behind the design of the handle lies a linear volume that greatly helps to offer the user maximum ergonomics and grip when turning the handle.

In this bathroom the taps were chosen in a chrome finish, for its gleaming cleanliness. The chrome finish is always in fashion, and in this project it has been used not only for the taps but also for accessories such as the towel rails and, above all, the central bench upholstered in white leather with chrome legs, which is the focal point of the project.

The project

As its name suggests, Tzar Bathroom is a project in which the use of a three-dimensional ceramic wall covering creates a multitude of light reflections, bringing dynamism and brightness to the space.

In this bathroom, the contrast between cold materials, such as white ceramics, and materials inspired by nature, such as the wood-effect porcelain tiling, helps to create an ideal space for those seeking a sophisticated designer bathroom.

Tzar Bathroom is a project of generous dimensions in which, as the central element of its layout, we can appreciate an elegantly designed bench that stands out for its functionality. This piece fills the room with character, as well as being practical for everyday use. It is a versatile element where the user can sit to get dressed, leave their belongings or carry out any other related activity.

Shower area

A large shower area has been created, notable for its double side entrance and its spectacular large thermostatic shower from the TZAR collection by Ramon Soler®. A completely transparent screen helps to create an open, airy bathroom and an exclusive shower area. In addition, the innovative layout of this shower makes it comfortable to enjoy the most relaxing moment of the day.

Washbasin area

A superb minimalist design characterises the suspended wooden countertop, which provides comfort and functionality when moving around the space. This spectacular piece of wood is crowned by a deep ceramic bowl washbasin, complemented by the exclusive high-spout single-lever tap from the TZAR collection by Ramon Soler®.

A sleek tap with plenty of personality, conveying strength and elegance and adding importance and character to the bathroom. The high-spout single-lever tap in a chrome finish is a perfect complement to the spotless white washbasin.

The Tzar Bathroom project becomes a sophisticated, urban space which, thanks to the quality of its elements and the harmony of its design, is transformed into a welcoming and relaxing bathroom.
