The Urban Chic bathroom

The elegance of marble-effect cladding never goes out of fashion. Marble is brought up to date to envelop contemporary bathroom settings without losing the elegance that made it famous in antiquity. It is also combined with solid wood pieces, which add quality to the project, thereby adapting the luxury of natural materials to more urban spaces.

In the Urban Chic Bathroom project, SIA Biosca brings together the highly elegant collection of taps by Ramon Soler® and the elegance of the wall cladding, creating a sophisticated, urban bathroom.

The Urban Chic tap collection fuses our most human desires with our urban habitat. This collection is fully equipped, offering everything from single-lever basin mixers to bidet taps and thermostatic mixers incorporating the latest technologies. But the most novel feature is that the Urban Chic single-lever mixer has incorporated the Tourbillon system, patented by Ramon Soler®: a unique and exceptional water circuit that controls the force and tension of the water, delivering it clearly, silently and gently, in the form of a waterfall. A collection with a design of curves, straight lines and unexpected angles, creating a bold, slender, novel and elegant aesthetic. Above all, though, it has an ergonomic and functional design.

This spectacular Urban Chic Bathroom designed by SIA Biosca is fully equipped, making a true commitment to personal care. Without giving up any element and thinking of every detail, spaces have been created dedicated to the pleasure we need at each moment of our daily lives, with a double basin, double shower, WC, bidet and freestanding bathtub.

Shower area

Two large shower areas are created through an innovative layout in which the screens that enclose the WC and the bidet, on either side of the shower, slide across to close off the shower area completely. This double shower makes bathing as a couple more comfortable. Both showers use thermostatic taps from the Urban Chic collection by Ramon Soler®, to save energy and water. Details make the difference, and in this project we see it with the new thermostatic mixers from the Urban Chic collection, which incorporate a glass shelf that is functional and thoroughly elegant, achieving a delicate effect of ideal harmony and total comfort for the user.

Basin area

The Urban Chic Bathroom project also includes two separate basin areas, placed opposite each other. This gives two people independence while sharing the same bathroom. The basin areas are fitted with Urban Chic single-lever mixers with an open spout, which let you see the spectacular, delicate waterfall into which they flow.

Freestanding bathtub area

In the centre of the bathroom, and as the axis of circulation of the project, we find a freestanding bathtub, fitted with a freestanding floor-standing column tap by Ramon Soler.

The taps for freestanding bathtubs by Ramon Soler® complement them aesthetically, giving the bathroom an unusual elegance. The freestanding bathtub brings back the rituals of old, when it was filled with salts and foam and the comfort of the bath stretched on indefinitely. With the bathtub columns by Ramon Soler®, this unique luxury can be adapted to different styles of bathtub, as it is a type of tap with an avant-garde, visually pure design.

WC and bidet area

The WC and bidet are each located on one side of the double shower. They are independent and can each be closed off separately within the same bathroom by means of a screen. The bidet is also fitted with Urban Chic taps, in this case articulated for easy use.

The Urban Chic Bathroom project becomes a sophisticated interior space that unites two fundamental factors: optimal layout and quality pieces, creating a thoroughly urban bathroom, suitable for both hotels and homes with the space to plan a truly complete bathroom. When it comes to bathroom design, creating harmony between all its elements is the key to success.
