Pure Water Magnet Kitchen kitchen tap by Ramon Soler®, with magnet system and built-in water filtration.

Pure Water Magnet Kitchen is an industrial-style kitchen tap with a side single-lever mixer. It stands out for including an exclusive magnet system, which allows the spout to return easily to its original position when use ends, thanks to the action of an effective neodymium magnet that generates a magnetic field at the end of the pull-out spray head for effortless extraction and replacement. It also stands out for the filtration system built into the spout, which removes contaminants and solid substances, making the water suitable for drinking. The brand offers high-purity water, an advantage that reduces the consumption of bottled water and thereby the environmental impact of plastic waste, a beneficial contribution to the environment.

To enhance the ergonomics and ease of use of the tap, it includes a high 360° swivel spout, always made of natural rubber, which gives it maximum flexibility, together with the pull-out spray head, which incorporates a push button that activates two types of water outlet depending on the task at hand, making it ideal for washing large kitchen utensils as well as food.

The collection of pull-out kitchen taps with the exclusive magnet system and built-in water filtration is available in a high-resistance chrome finish and in new finishes, inspired by global design trends, that give kitchens the essence of sophistication: brushed nickel finish, which brings timeless beauty and a handcrafted look; and matt black, the colour of immaculate elegance.

The design of the Pure Water taps, with a consistent, robust aesthetic, forms a set of solid lines and shapes that combines perfectly with the latest-trend kitchen wall coverings and worktops, from marble- or granite-finish surfaces to walls with geometric-pattern wallpaper. Pure Water is the jewel of kitchens in the purest industrial style: New York, modern and groundbreaking.
