Ramon Soler® carries out serology and PCR medical tests on its entire workforce to safeguard a safe working environment

For Industrias Ramon Soler®, tap manufacturers with 130 years of history, people matter most; for this reason the company shows once again its commitment to society and carries out medical tests on all its employees and collaborators. This reinforces all the protocols the firm has established since the start of the pandemic, to guarantee a solid and safe working environment.

In these times of health emergency, it is vital for the firm to commit to the safety and health of its people, which is why medical tests were carried out last Thursday, 03/09/2020. These medical tests included serology and PCR, so the information obtained is more complete, as it determines whether you have had the virus, whether you have developed antibodies and whether you are infected at this moment.

The company manages the risks and safety of each and every one of its employees and has offered this medical test to all the company's workers, including temporary agency staff and subcontractors, with a participation rate of almost 97%.

With this gesture, Ramon Soler® highlights the significant effort and investment made to create and maintain a safe working environment for all its employees. Through its ongoing commitment, the firm's performance in improving risk and safety control and in looking after everyone's wellbeing stands out.

In addition, Industrias Ramon Soler continues with the preventive measures introduced in March, maintaining the temporary change of working hours and remote working, with the aim of guaranteeing the protection of safe zones and facilitating work-life balance.

Always attentive to the wellbeing of its employees, it places great emphasis on safety, implementing occupational health and risk management programmes and protocols.
