Ceiling shower head with chromotherapy

We enjoy water in full colour to stimulate our senses.

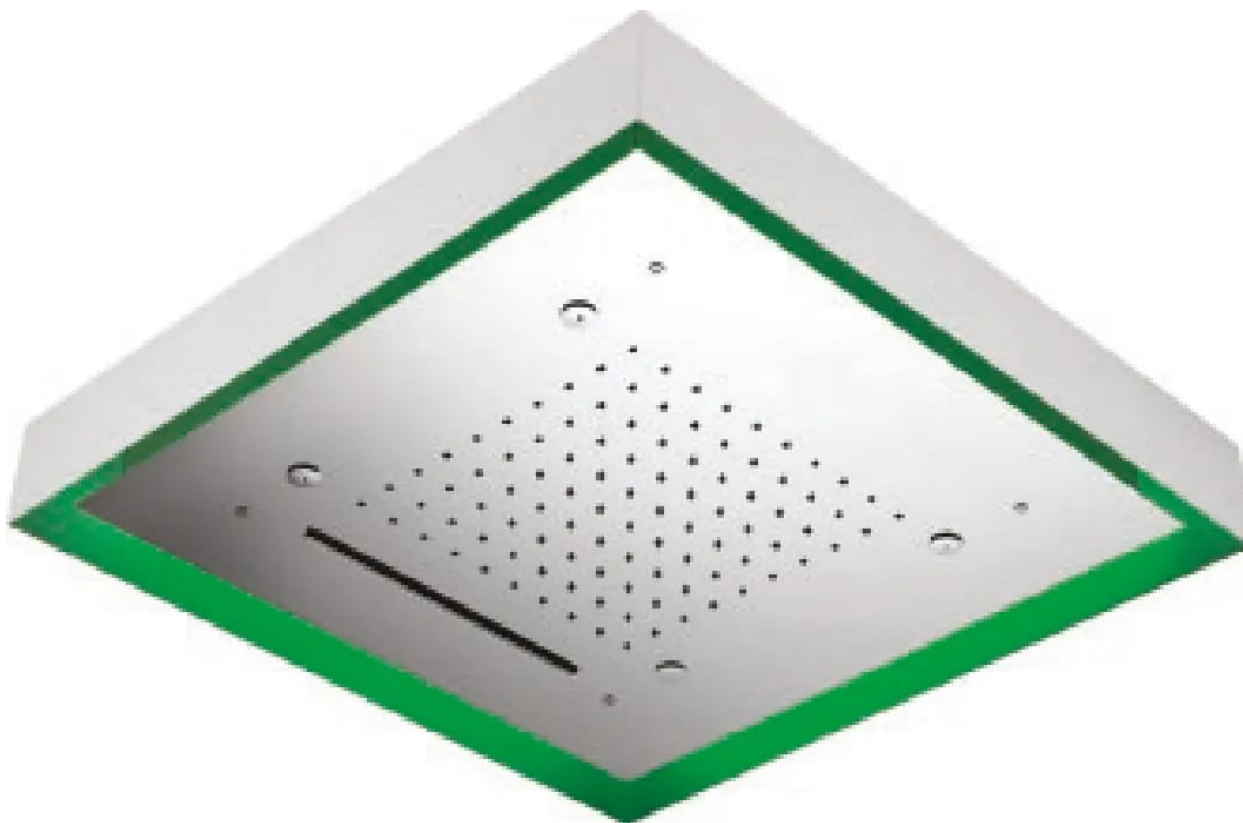

Ramon Soler® makes available to us one of the greatest jewels in its hydrotherapy catalogue: the REKLEDN570 shower head with Chromotherapy; a solution designed to bring us the peace and sense of comfort that we need so much right now. These are difficult times of lockdown, in which we may feel stressed, sad or nervous. That is why enjoying experiences that bring us well-being at home is more important than ever. Pampering ourselves will make us feel much stronger.

REKLEDN570 shower head with chromotherapy by Ramon Soler®

REKLEDN570 is made entirely of stainless steel with a minimalist Ultra Slim design, a 570x570mm square format and ceiling-recessed mounting. However, what captivates us are its three water outlets: rain, waterfall and mist. All of them are accompanied by a set of LED lights, specially designed for chromotherapy systems, which lets us wrap our bathroom in a chromatic glow and make the shower the best moment of our day, relaxing us and stimulating all our senses.

This LED system, which completely surrounds the REKLEDN570 shower head by Ramon Soler®, offers all the benefits of chromotherapy, a concept of harmonising body and mind which holds that each of the colours of the colour wheel generates a series of energetic stimuli in us, conveying different sensations and emotions. They are therefore able to influence our mood and our mental and physical well-being. For example, some of the most commonly used, the blue or green tones, connect us directly with a feeling of calm and relaxation, as if we were strolling along the shore of a calm beach or walking through the leafiest forest. We may also want to enjoy the stimulation and positive effects of colours such as red or yellow, to start the day with energy and a desire to be productive, something very important for keeping our spirits up. Chromotherapy on its own adds great value to the bathroom, but Ramon Soler® knows how to create highly positive sensory experiences and make the shower the best moment of our day. That is why it incorporates three water outlet modes to complete the pleasure of the shower: the rain outlet is projected with maximum precision and constant water distribution through each of the nozzles, guaranteeing a wide, uniform spray, for a fine yet abundant flow with which to enjoy an extraordinary and pleasant rainfall, which will also make daily hygiene easier, with a plentiful and quick rinsing of shampoo from hair and body.

It is complemented by a waterfall water outlet: the effect of a waterfall in the heart of nature thanks to a free fall of water. This is the function that gives us the most vitality and energy, and the sensation it creates is unrivalled when combined with the selection of the colour red. The pressure the water exerts has a positive effect on our body, as it stimulates circulation and reduces muscle tension. Lastly, a subtle mist that envelops and revitalises us: the shower head has four misting nozzles that give off a fine vapour, producing a cooling sensation that caresses our skin, as if in a Turkish bath. The shower head includes a push-button control, which is recessed into the wall, by means of which chromotherapy is activated and the desired colour of light is chosen.

Chromotherapy control by Ramon Soler®

Opening the water requires the installation of a concealed tap, which can be either single-lever or thermostatic. Of course, the brand does not neglect its commitment to the quality and durability of its products. That is why the REKLEDN570 shower head is made entirely of stainless steel -proof against rust, wear, limescale and sea water- with flexible anti-limescale silicone nozzles. Because quality must be preventive and perceptible at a glance, and Ramon Soler® achieves it by designing reliable, functional products and making sensory experiences a reality that satisfy, stimulate and comfort us whenever we need it.
